

Thank you for your interest in hosting an event during Nomad Week 2025!
Please find the terms and conditions below.

What We Expect From You

1. Event Concept and Ownership

- Choose an event format that reflects your passions and skills. Examples include mastermind groups, meetups, skill-building workshops, fitness activities, or informal social gatherings.
- Take full ownership of planning and running your event. We'll support you with logistics, but the creative and organizational lead is in your hands.

2. Registration Management

- Use the Nomad Summit platform to handle event registrations. This keeps everything in the same place and ensures participants have easy access to all Nomad Week activities.
- The events should be free for the Nomad Summit badge holders. You can also promote and invite people from outside of the Nomad Summit participants and charge them a fee through our platform. The host of the event collects the fees.
- If there's any extra costs for the participants (e.g. food/drinks), they should have the opportunity to pay on the spot.

3. Commitment

- Be prepared to lead your event during your allocated time slot.

What We Offer in Return

1. Support with Venue and Logistics

- We will assist you in finding a suitable venue for your event and provide suggestions to fit your group size and needs.
- Your event will be added to the official Nomad Week schedule to avoid overlap with other activities.

2. Promotion

- Your event will be featured on our Nomad Summit platform and shared with all participants. This ensures visibility and makes it easy for attendees to discover and register for your event.

3. Discounted Nomad Summit Ticket

- As a thank-you for hosting, you'll receive a 15% discount on the Nomad Summit conference ticket. The hosting does not include a fee otherwise.

3. Networking and Recognition

- Hosting an event positions you as a leader within the Nomad community, helping you connect with like-minded individuals, expand your network, and build lasting relationships.
